Searching how patrons think

The screenshot displays the Washington County Cooperative Library Services website. The search bar at the top shows the query "new teen books". The results are filtered by "Book", "Graphic Novel", "Teens", and "Past 180 Days". The left sidebar offers various filters such as "Available Now", "Format", "New at the library...", "Content", "Audience", "Form/Genres", "Topic", "Regions", "Author", "Languages", "Published Date", "Rating", "Tags", and "Reading Level". The main content area lists two books: "The Dollar Kids" by Jacobson, Jennifer and "Dreaming Dangerous" by DeStefano, Lauren. Both books are marked as "All copies in use" and have a "Place a Hold" button. Below these, a "While You Wait" section features a carousel of book covers including "GOOLZ", "FOUR", "Ghosts", "BEING TO FEEL YOU", and "SUNSHINE". The bottom right corner of the page includes the "BIBLIO COMMONS" logo.

Nov 01, 2020 ★★★★★☆

Not for every reader, this historical novel takes place almost entirely in a single room in a Dublin hospital in 1918. But for those who will be fascinated by the women's lives, especially labor and delivery, during the Spanish Flu epidemic, 1900's this will be a compelling and moving read. Read less

Eerily timely, this novel set over a few days in a maternity ward during the Spanish Flu 1918 made me want to race through the story but also linger over Donoghue's elegant, sparse and impactful writing.
